“Stop and smell the roses” is an idiom that means to relax; to take time out of one's busy schedule to enjoy or appreciate the beauty of life. Whether you think of “stopping to smell the roses” as a metaphor, or an actual act of admiring roses, the benefit is the same.

We should all take time to stop and let go of the busyness that we encounter in our world today! Life is more than all the “stuff we have to get done”. Sometimes, it can wait until tomorrow! Just sayin...
